BANKER GAMBIER TELLS HOW BRIDE'S COLD CARESS KILLED HIS ARDENT LOVE

Says Pretty Wife Repulsed Him During Honeymoon Tour Through Europe.

Harvey Sickler Refuses to Admit He Is Man Who Kissed Mrs. Gambier.

Edward V. Gambier, cashier of the Exchange National Bank, today told on the stand in the Supreme Court the sad tale of his wife's honeymoon with the pretty Southern bride who is suing him for separation. Gambier declared that his wife repulsed his attentions from the hour they were married, and though he embraced her ardently all during their European trip and return to New York, she repulsed him repeatedly and sometimes received his kisses submissively. When he finally left her in New York she was cold and indifferent.

Harvey C. Sickler, a wealthy oil magnate and associate of J. Pierpont Morgan in the Fertilizer Trust, admitted to an Evening World reporter in his apartment at No. 1 West 57th street today that he "knew" the mysterious gentleman with the "mysterious" name had been the frequent companion of Mrs. Gambier, the "kissless bride." Mr. Sickler's name was inadvertently dropped yesterday on the witness stand by Charles W. Brewster, a chauffeur, who said he had driven Mrs. Gambier and Mr. Sickler on many trips and had often seen them hugging and kissing.

"Well, I might be the man," said Mr. Sickler today, "but you understand, my dear fellow, it would be most unbecoming in me to say anything about the matter—most unbecoming—you really will have to excuse me."

"WHY NOT," HE SAYS, "AM I NOT A BACHELOR?"

"You know Mr. Gambier, do you not?"

"Oh, yes," he replied. "I've known her about two years, but there's nothing unusual in that. Is there? I'm a bachelor, you know."

"Yes, from time to time, I've seen a deal of the lady," said Mr. Sickler.

"Did she visit your apartment and did you go to church and the bath and other things?"

"Oh, I really must talk about that," he answered. "It wouldn't do. Will I identify? I don't know. I haven't been asked—but you must excuse me, I really can't say any more."

Mr. Sickler is the president of the Atlantic Fertilizer and Oil Company, No. 16 Broadway. He is a tall, handsome, well put up, smartly dressed man with a pleasing address and a nonchalant manner of speech—quite the opposite of Edward Victor Gambier, the bank official, who unreservedly told on the witness stand how his pretty young wife had repulsed him almost from the moment of their marriage.

Mrs. Gambier was more smartly dressed than on any previous day of the trial. She wore a walking suit of black with a long and full skirt and a high collar. The dainty blue ruffles of her waist extended over her breast in a delicate white cloud. She wore the same little round black hat and the blue veil. The two big carat and a-half diamonds given her for an engagement ring sparkled on her finger next to her wedding ring.

Straight off the stand today Mr. Gambier put himself in the class of husband who has been repulsed by his wife's cold and heartless attitude. At night she danced with other men. I don't like her because I thought she wouldn't like to dance with me."

"At night did you occupy the same state room?"

"Yes, we had two bunks. I always

CITY SUBWAY PLAN IS TURNED DOWN BY INTERBOROUGH

Late This Evening It Is Announced That Terms Are Too Drastic.

PRIVATE CAPITAL TIMID.

Company Says It Would Be Hard to Find Investors Under Conditions.

At the offices of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company at No. 165 Broadway late this afternoon it was officially announced that the terms of the McAneny offer of a subway contract to the Interborough, laid before the company a week ago, would be declined. To inquire the only information added to the news of the company to accept the terms of the city was contained on a typewritten slip, which read:

"Declined because its conditions are so onerous that private capital could not be enlisted."

The announcement followed a meeting of the directors of the Interborough, which was attended by the financial backers of the company, including representatives of the banking house of J. P. Morgan & Co.

Mr. Morgan, it was known, gave his personal attention to the preparation of the Interborough's first proposal to the city, which was rejected. He has never countenanced the transportation future of the city between the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company and the Interborough. Many of the directors of the Interborough went to the meeting today thinking that the city's new plan would be accepted by the vote of the board.

The Morgan men held down the law. The Interborough might accept all it pleased, they were understood to have said, but the Interborough might not be able to find the money for the capital necessary. The meeting was stormy, but it was not possible for those waiting outside the door to see the verdict to tell who was doing the talking or exactly what was being said.

Mayor Gaynor and his associates on the Board of Estimate knew of the probable outcome of the meeting earlier in the day and were considerably concerned about it. Their previous understanding, coming from information of Interborough directors who were not in the confidence of the Wall Street bankers, was that the plan would be accepted by the Interborough under protest.

The B. R. T. has not yet accepted. If the Interborough cannot get money from the only source of capital available—which are controlled by the Morgan combination—it was considered yesterday whether the B. R. T. could raise assurances of enough money to accept the city's proposal, even though it were deemed an advantageous plan by the traction experts of the Brooklyn system.

From the temper of the members of the Board of Estimate who discussed the forthcoming refusal of the Morgan and other interests to countenance the McAneny plan, it was gathered that the city will be asked to at once go ahead with the Interborough subway system as at first proposed and advocated by the Evening World, to be built and financed by the city independent of all existing monopolies and to be operated by a company accepting the city's terms or by the city itself.

REICHMANN CASE IN.

People Rest in Prosecution of Former Carnegie Trust Head.

At 3 o'clock this afternoon Mr. Clark announced that the People rested its case against James B. Reichmann, on trial in the criminal branch of the Supreme Court, for making false reports to the State Banking Department while he was President of the Carnegie Trust Company.

Mr. Reichmann for the defense, then called a number of character witnesses to the stand.

PITTSBURG CLUB PROTESTS GAME WITH CINCINNATI.

PITTSBURG, Pa., June 27.—Assuming that the umpire failed to apply the rule in the third inning of yesterday's game with Cincinnati, Manager Clark of the Pittsburgh ball team has filed a protest with President Thomas J. Lynch of the National League and asks that the game be thrown out.

TAFT IN BIG STORM THAT HIT CAPITAL AND CLOSED SENATE

President Has Spell of Peril on Golf Links—Thunder Makes Senators Adjourn.

WASHINGTON, June 27.—A severe wind, rain and hail storm swept over Washington today. It blew sixty miles an hour about the Capitol, causing so much disturbance that the Senate adjourned. Senator Borah was speaking and senators found it impossible to hear him.

President Taft had an exciting time during the storm. With Gen. Clarence K. Edwards and Major A. W. Hull the President was playing golf on the Chevy Chase links when it broke. For ten minutes or more the lightning flashed uncomfortably and the rain poured down in sheets.

YOUNG ROSSITER IS HELD ON CHILD'S INSULT CHARGE.

Ernest F. Rossiter, a son of the late E. V. Rossiter, former vice-president of the New York Central Railroad, was held today in $1,000 bail on a charge of insulting a child. He was arrested by Police Magistrate Steinert, sitting in the Yorkville Police Court, had heard with rising indignation the story of ten-year-old Ethel Maurer of No. 112 Clay avenue, the Bronx.

This is not the first time that Rossiter, who is twenty-seven years old, has been mixed up in trouble of this sort. No longer ago than April 11 he was punished by George W. Reilly, a citizen of Queens Borough, for having annoyed Reilly's young daughter.

Early last night when Policeman Powers had rescued Rossiter from the grasp of his latest victim's mother, Rossiter insisted, even after identifying papers had been found in his pockets, that he was John Powers, a townsmen of Tottenville, S. I. He even swore that Powers was his name.

But today, at his formal arraignment, being confronted with the prospect of a perjury prosecution for having made a false statement under oath, he weakened and owned up that he was the same Rossiter that Reilly had whipped. He gave his age as twenty-seven and his home address as No. 22 Sanford avenue, Flushing, which was the home of his father.

The World Travel Bureau, 400 Broadway, New York, has been asked to furnish information for Hudson River and Long Island Sound, and to furnish a list of all boats and boatsmen on the river and sound.

SEIZES MAD DOG AS CHILDREN RUN AWAY SCREAMING

James Hogan Is Bitten in Struggle With Animal Near Schoolhouse.

While more than 1,000 children were leaving Public School No. 23, at One Hundred and Fifty-eighth street and Brook avenue, this afternoon, a black and white dog, believed to have been mad, came dashing along Brook avenue, snapping and snarling.

The children ran to the other side of the street, crying with fear, and a score of mothers, waiting for little sons and daughters, were thrown into a nervous panic. James Hogan of No. 722 Cleveland place, section of 88, Peter and Paul's Church, was waiting for his two children when the dog appeared. He tried to lead the children to run and then threw himself at the dog.

He tried to seize the animal by the throat and shut off its wind, but in doing so he stumbled and fell. Presently he was rolling about on the ground with the animal, trying to get a grip on its neck. After biting him severely in the right hand the dog broke away and ran to the corner of One Hundred and Fifty-eighth street and St. Ann's avenue, where it was shot by Policeman William Dooley.

Hogan, who had joined in the chase, caught his wound, went home, changed his clothes and went down town to the Pasteur Institute for treatment. The dog's head will be examined by the Health Department, so far as it known, Hogan was the only one bitten.

The summer dog ordinance became a law today without the signature of the Mayor, but does not have the force of law until it is signed by the Board of Aldermen. This means that wherever a dog is found on the streets of New York, it must be kept on a leash and its owner must be liable for its actions.

CORNELL IS VICTOR IN VARSITY RACE AT POUGHKEEPSIE REGATTA

Ithacans Start Day With Victory in Four-Oared Race, but Are Beaten After Gallant Struggle in Freshman Event

SALUTE IS FIRED IN HONOR OF GOV. DIX AND HIS STAFF.

Gala Scenes Along Hudson, Thousands of Sightseers Lining Banks to See Collegians in Annual Contest.

Varsity Race—Cornell first, Columbia second, Pennsylvania third, Wisconsin fourth, Syracuse last.

Four-Oared Race.—Cornell won; Syracuse was second, half a length behind; Columbia was third, two lengths back; Pennsylvania was fourth, rowed out and beaten fifteen lengths. Freshman Eight.—Columbia first; Cornell was second, Syracuse third and Pennsylvania fourth.

By Robert Edgren. (Special to the Evening World.)

POUGHKEEPSIE, June 27.—Cornell won the Varsity race here this afternoon after a nip and tuck struggle with Columbia. Pennsylvania was third and the Wisconsin and Syracuse fourth and fifth far back. Cornell had previously won the four-oared event from Columbia, but the New Yorkers beat the Ithacans in the Freshman race.

They were off at 5:31. Wisconsin got off in the lead, followed by Cornell. At the 200-yard mark Columbia was in front. Cornell was second and Pennsylvania third.

At the half mile Columbia was still in front, with Cornell a close second and Pennsylvania third. Syracuse was fourth at this stage and Wisconsin last.

Columbia still led at the first mile, with Cornell second, Pennsylvania third, Syracuse fourth and Wisconsin hopelessly last. They were going like a house afire.

After the mile mark was passed, Cornell was in first place, but Columbia soon regained the lead. Cornell, dropping to second place again. It was a two-sided race so far.

Columbia and Syracuse were neck and neck at the two-mile mark, with Pennsylvania third, Cornell fourth and Wisconsin last.

Columbia drew away again and was in front at two and a half miles, with the Ithacans second, Pennsylvania third and the other two far back.

Hogan, who had joined in the chase, caught his wound, went home, changed his clothes and went down town to the Pasteur Institute for treatment. The dog's head will be examined by the Health Department, so far as it known, Hogan was the only one bitten.

Cornell started the day with a victory in the four-oared event. Syracuse was an easy second, with Columbia third and Pennsylvania a poor last.

Columbia spelled the clean sweep idea for Cornell by winning the freshman eight, from the Ithacans. Syracuse was third and Pennsylvania fourth. Cornell, however, ruled favorite for the varsity struggle.

Official time for freshman race: Columbia, 10:13.45; Cornell, 10:23.45; Syracuse, 10:33.45; Pennsylvania, 10:43.45; Wisconsin, 10:53.45.
